

I feel that the NJ "do not call" law should remain as is. It is a pleasure to sit through a meal and not be interrupted with telemarketers. Also during all hours of the day and evening they are calling. Maybe the federal government should follow NJ's lead instead of trying to knock it down.